WE NOMINATE

Nicholas Gabriel Harsanyi, 37-year old native of Budapest, Hungary, and an enthusiastic Princetonian of 13 years' standing, who as conductor of the Princeton Symphony Orchestra is making a tremendous contribution to this community's enjoyment of living. Associated with an organization to which such citizens as Albert Einstein, Charles Rosenbury Erdman and Robert Casadesus have given their support, Harsanyi and his colleagues—in the midst of the 65-piece orchestra's second season—can now rightfully state, "We are building a real symphony, one that is worthy of Princeton."

In preparing for the orchestra's third concert, at the McCarter Theatre Saturday evening, January 26th, Harsanyi, head of the instrumental department at the Westminster Choir College, is displaying the kind of musicianship that has made it possible for him to combine teaching with membership in two of the world's celebrated string quartets, the Lener and Roth Quartets. On leave of absence from Westminster, he toured four continents with the former for nearly three years and since 1948 has devoted summers to the Roth group that recently gained new laurels with its recordings of the six quartets Mozart dedicated to Haydn.

Harsanyi, the son of a publishing company executive and a product of the University of Budapest's Academy of Music, was called here in 1938 on a teaching fellowship and turned in such a superlative job that he was elevated to the Westminster Faculty the following fall. During World War II, like the great majority of "new Americans," he served with the Armed Forces, actually living a "soldier's dream" in the Army. As a private, without benefit of stripes or bars, he conducted the Army's Symphony Orchestra and in that capacity "commanded" an outfit that included officers up to the rank of colonel, as well as the concert-masters of the country's top symphonies.

The Princeton Orchestra under Harsanyi's volunteer direction draws its personnel not only from Princeton and its environs but also from localities within a 50-mile radius of McCarter. It is significant that the musicians, some of whom lose four-or-five hours in commuting to and from a rehearsal, are just as excited about the Saturday afternoon Youth Concert as they are about the "big" night event, for Harsanyi is working for the day when youngsters will progress from the Youth Concerts to school musical units, ultimately to assignments with the Princeton Symphony, an organization open to any one "who is qualified musically."

For personifying the highest ideals of community service; for making music his whole life and delightedly sharing that life with others; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for Township Taxes. Leading topic of conversation for the next month might well he the township's school budget, which will, if passed, radically alter the relationship of Princeton's two municipalities. As reported here last week, its size is such that the township tax rate may well top the $5 mark for the first time and thereby pass the borough's annual levy on its property owners.

The budget of $413,600 is higher by a third than last year's, in line with the board of education's statement that a substantial increase was unavoidable. While new buildings are expected to add as much as $400,000 to township rateables, the exact amount is not yet known. Accordingly, the only method of guaging the increase is to report that on a basis of present property evaluation, the boost in the tax rate—for school purposes alone—would be as much as 100 points.

Township residents had until February 13, the date of the annual district elections, to decide whether they would approve the budget or not. In an era when it had been clearly shown what constantly mounting costs of supplies and repairs would do to the sadly-depreciated dollar, and how important it is to maintain teachers' salaries at a level commensurate with the need for well-educated children, a negative vote would be difficult to cast.

But among the increases over last year's budget which will be discussed in the weeks ahead are grounds and buildings, up $25,000 to permit improved playground and recreational facilities; transportation, up $7,000 to meet higher costs and establish a half-day service for kindergarten pupils; $19,000 more for regularly-scheduled and cost-of-living increases in teachers' salaries; $3,500 more for maintenance employees; $5,000 more for textbooks and supplies; $5,600 more for establishing a manual training course; another $9,000 in capital outlay; and $20,000 above last year's figure in payment for sending high school pupils to the borough.

Still to come were the township committee's own budget which, like the borough's and the county's, was confronted with mounting costs and growing populations that made an increase inevitable. The county's rate was unofficially reported this week to be heading for a five to eight-point jump over 1951. The municipal rate would not be determined for another fortnight or so.

When all of the pieces fitted into a completed picture, the township taxpayer would have more cause for thought on the subject of municipal finances than he had had at any time in the past. After all, they were as closely connected with his own pocketbook as his house is to the foundations on which it stands.

Poll on Library Service. The township committee got clear evidence at its Monday night meeting that an alliance with the borough's public library, thereby enabling its residents to use the building without direct charge, would be a popular move with a majority of those who expressed an opinion on the subject. Polled under the guidance of Opinion Research Corporation, a substantial cross section (211) of township residents showed that 46% of the municipality would back such a step, whereas 34% favor the present system. Of the remaining 20%, most either had no preference or no opinion.

Last week, a public meeting on the subject uncovered numerous interesting aspects of the problem and disbanded with unanimous approval of a motion that, while membership in the county library be maintained, library service for township residents from the borough be obtained as soon as possible, and plans be made eventually to form a joint library for the two municipalities.

Substantiating this outlook, the survey was conducted by ORC, under the personal direction of Albert Westefeld. Residents of all four election districts were questioned and a fact-packed report was submitted at Monday's session of the governing body.

While the weight of sentiment for use of the library was not overwhelming, all the evidence pointed to preference for such a relationship. The biggest hurdle, however, remained: in a year when taxes were mounting on all sides, not even Mayor Sturges' offer of "$4,500 or less" a matter of 75 or 80 cents for every township resident—was likely to draw an affirmative vote from the hard-pressed governing body.

Drives for Dimes. Princeton organizations in all fields of civic, social and fraternal activities are backing the annual March of Dimes campaign. Paul C. Alford, Jr. (of the Textile Research Institute) has been named chairman of the 1952 drive here, with Mrs. Ruth Gates heading the women's division.

Among the groups which have actively participated to date are the Business and Professional Women's Club, whose members distributed coin boxes to store counters; the Catholic Daughters of America, who staged a benefit card party; Thistle Lodge No. 220, Daughters of Scotia, who will sponsor a silver tea Friday night at the home of Mrs. Melville Young on the Somerville Road; and the Knights of Columbus, who have scheduled their annual spaghetti dinner and dance for Saturday, January 26, from 5 to 9.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Lions Club has mailed some 6,000 coin envelopes to the Princeton community, while the Lions themselves will sponsor the New Jersey Speed Skating Championships next Saturday in Baker Rink with part of the proceeds aiding the ceaseless fight against infantile paralysis.

With polio striking at an unusually high rate in the past three years, the need for funds is greater than ever. In Mercer County last year, 50% of the polio cases were from this area, whereas but 20% of the contributions were from Princetonians. The challenge was unmistakable.

Ex-Postmaster Dies. A man who had been a public figure in Princeton for a decade and a half died Monday. He was Stephen W. Margerum of 72 Murray Place, postmaster from 1934 until his retirement in 1949.

Mr. Margerum was the first incumbent of the present post office in Palmer Square, which opened there before any of the present surrounding buildings had been constructed by Princeton Municipal Improvement. Comparative figures are unavailable, but it is safe to estimate that during the 15 years while he was postmaster, the volume of mail handled increased tenfold.

"Y" Honors Five. Five Princetonians were honored for outstanding service to the Y.M.C.A. at its annual meeting Monday night. Their combined number of years

It's New to Us

A Wardrobe Lift. You know how it is, come January. You look in your closet and there's a rackful of clothes—and not one thing you can really wear.

To remedy this deplorable situation, all you need is the time to get to The Joan Shop, 63 Palmer Square. Featured there, you'll find that wonderful new fabric called paper taffeta.

If you haven't seen the stuff before, you may find the adjective "paper" misleading. Think, not of last Sunday's comic section, but of the finest onion-skin, and you'll have some idea of the texture of this material. And feminine! It's the rustliest taffeta that ever caught a man's ear.

At Joan's, taffeta dresses follow a slightly tailored, understated line: it's the fabric that holds the stage. You'll find a trim navy with the tiniest pink rosebuds for $24.95. Or a jacket dress in rose with lacy black trees, and black velvet piping on the jacket. Then a short-sleeved dress in a chartreuse that looks like the very first shoot of spring. Only $12.95 for this one. As you can imagine, any of these would be delectable under furs, and ideal for the south.

You'll find Joan's collection of resort clothes all you could ask for to bask in. And if you are holing up for the winter in Princeton, the way we are, you can get an early peek at summer styles. Joan has a wide assortment of sun-backs, some with jackets, some with absurd little capes. And there are a few of the incomparable L'Aiglon linens, casual, with just enough detail to make them remarkable.

For dressier resort wear, why not a white Ottoman faille suit? You'll love its price, and the fact that skirt and jacket may be bought separately. (Skirt $7.95, jacket $12.95).

South or north, Joan's cotton Tattersall blouses will be just the trick for a suit wardrobe. Classic lines and a button-up shirt collar are brightened by two rows of buttons down the front: one row red, one navy, and by three-quarter bat-wing sleeves.

The In-Between Dress. For those of us who aren't quite ready to take off red flannels and put on taffeta, Mary Gill at 230 Nassau (in the Old Stone House) has The Dress. It's a casual, button-down-the-fronter in rich solids like coral and aqua, or in tiny pinchecks.

Its lightweight gabardine is just about right for winter wear, and the colors are a foretaste of spring. We'll wager it's one of those dresses you will wear and wear—right up 'till the first really warm days. And at $12.95—why not pick up a pair?

A New Twist in Rugs. If you've been yearning for a wall-to-wall floor covering but haven't been able to squeeze your wallet hard enough, take a look at the new broadloom twist they have at the Rug Mart on the Somerville Road.

The gimmick here is that the rug is half wool, half rayon. That brings the price 'way down to the floor, where it belongs. Only $7.95 a yard. We paid much more than that for an all-wool rug that looks exactly like this half-and-half.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S CHOICE FOR AMBASSADOR TO RUSSIA AND HIS FAMILY

George F. Kennan, a resident of Princeton for the past year, has been selected by President Truman to be this country's next ambassador to Russia. Confirmation of the appointment by Congress is expected to follow in time to permit Mr. Kennan to go to Moscow by April 1. He is shown here at his Hodge Road home with Mrs. Kennan, who is holding two-year-old son, Christopher; and their daughters, Joan, 15, and Grace, 19.

of interest and assistance in its work total a full century.

Those to whom citations were presented were George Reeves, Sr. (the veteran of the group, with 44 years to his credit); Edmund D. Cook, Raymond C. Brickley, E. Harris Harbison and William F. Hall. Dr. Paul R. Chesebro, headmaster of The Hun School, was re-elected president of the Y's board of directors. Raymond F. Male was named vice-president, replacing Mr. Cook, with Theodore Toms replacing Mr. Harbison as secretary. Mr. Brickley will continue as treasurer. Named directors for the first time were Dr. John R. Arscott and Theodore D. Vreeland.

Carnival Dates Set. The Princeton Skating Club, which has set March 21 and 22 as the dates for its annual ice carnival, will co-sponsor the event this year with the Princeton Community Players. Mrs. Ethel S. Brummer is chairman of the carnival, which will be staged by John F. Becker, active for several years in directing Players' productions.

The Skating Club currently has a capacity membership, with two professionals teaching both beginners and more advanced members. The senior professional is Miss Joan Dembeck of Trenton, who has been a member of the "Ice Follies" for the past four years.

Miss Grace Lee, who teaches at Rockefeller Center, has also been engaged by the club for weekly lessons. Interest has been such that for the first time, a class of boys, 7 to 11 years of age, has enrolled for instruction.

Citation Awarded. "Operation Nassau" this week singled out the newly-remodelled building at 240 Nassau Street and its owner for a citation in recognition of the transformation effected there last year. The former dwelling, unoccupied and in a general state of disrepair, was purchased, extensively redecorated and converted into a store and office building by Mrs. Claire Levine, operating as the Princeton Holding Co.

Tenants include John Cooper, air law consultant; Gerold Lauck, market analyst; Miss Beatrice Miers, manuscript typist; and Dr. S. Robert Lewis. Specific mention was made by "Operation Nassau" of the manner in which the colonial tradition of Princeton was preserved through the remodelling and as "additional proof that a business property need not be gaudy."

Dilman Smith and Julion Gornsey presented the award to Mrs. Levine who, with her husband, is co-proprietor of the Claridge Wine & Liquor Co. Other members of the committee are John Archer and Jack Turner, Jr.

Funds Still Needed. The First Aid Unit, which operates the town's only ambulance service, has renewed its appeal for funds with which to replace one of the ambulances now in use and to underwrite operational costs for another 12 months. An 11-year-old vehicle is to be sold by the unit when delivery is made of a new Packard Ambulance by the Silvester Motor Co.

Members of the organization, now totalling 35, provide the community with around-the-clock service. Last year, in answering 534 calls, they contributed nearly 1,100 man-hours and travelled 7,400 miles.

Calls for service should be made to Mrs. Helen Coon at 768, who

News of the Theatres

UNIVERSITY CONCERTS

The Stuyvesant String Quartet will be heard this Friday night at 8:30 in McCarter in a program of chamber music. Its appearance will be part of Series II of the University Concerts.

This group of musicians has been heard here on several previous occasions, and is invariably well received. Members are Sylvan Shulman, first violinist; Bernard Robbins, second violinist; Alan Shulman, cellist; and Ralph Hersh, viola.

The program will consist of Mozart's Quartet in D major, K. 575; Italian Serenade by Hugo Wolf; and the Quartet No. 2 by Ernest Bloch. Tickets at the University Store and, Friday evening, at the box office.

PROCTER HALL CONCERT

An afternoon of Elizabethan music, which proved most enjoyable to its audience last year, will again be presented on Sunday at 3:30 by the Princeton Madrigal Group. The concert will be given in Procter Hall at the Graduate College.

The group includes Helen Johnson and Mary Thurber, sopranos; Kathleen Forbes, Mary Lee Reynolds and Thelma Young, contraltos; Wells Huff and Harry Powers, tenors; William Reynolds, Robert Hallwachs and Elliott Forbes, basses. Mr. Forbes, assistant professor in the Department of Music, is the director.

Selections on the program are noteworthy from a literary as well as a musical point of view. Composers represented will include Byrd, Gibbons, Wilbye, Pilkington, Bateson and Farmer.

Sponsored by the Friends of Music at Princeton, the concert is open to the public without charge.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

A Youth Concert will be given by the Princeton Symphony Orchestra as a matinee performance preceding its evening concert next Saturday, January 26. The afternoon program will start at 3:30 in the McCarter, with tickets at a low cost being made available through the public and private schools.

An unusual soloist who will appear with the orchestra in the afternoon will be Paul Oncley, who is making a name for himself through his entertaining and educational "musical magic shows." He plays a novel electronic violin, which duplicates the tone quality of almost any stringed instrument.

Mr. Oncley has made a hobby out of removing the mystery from music-making. To demonstrate the functions of string, reed and brass instruments, he uses such ordinary household items as a garden hose, a hatchet, soda straws, a pop bottle, as well as a giant fiddle string. His seven-year old daughter, Carol, will assist in the demonstration.

Nicholas Harsanyi, faculty member at the Westminster Choir College, will conduct both afternoon and evening performances. The so-

State Group to Meet. The Business and Professional Women's Club will be host Saturday to the State Federation Board meeting of Business and Professional Clubs in an all-day session at the Princeton Inn. Mrs. Dorothy Ferguson, vice-president of the Princeton organization, will be general chairman.

She is being assisted in arrangements by Mrs. Mary Gill Reef, Princeton club president, who is in charge of entertainment; Miss Alice Braveman and Mrs. Adelia Benham, co-chairmen of hostesses; Miss Elizabeth Gibson and Miss Dorothea Wein, decorations; Miss Ann Camacho, reservations; Miss Elise Goupil and Mrs. Benham, door prizes; Mrs. Marguerite Burger, program.

Morning and afternoon meetings will be followed by a dinner, with Professor Marver Bernstein of the University Department of Politics as the speaker. His subject: "What Are We Getting for Our Federal Taxes?".

Miscellany. Some gasoline dealers in Mercer County are threatening to close February 1 in protest against a renewal of the price war that has sent prices down as much as a nickel a gallon. However, it had not spread to Princeton by mid-week and closings were unanticipated here.

The Service League Toy Shop, which renovated some 600 playthings before Christmas for children of needy parents and those in near-by institutions, has thanked the many individuals and schools for their contributions. Supplies came from Farr's, Bamman's, The Better Mousetrap, Hinkson's and Hulit's, while the borough and the university were also of help.

A daughter has been born to Mr. & Mrs. Russell B. Kirby, 220 Harrison; sons to Mr. & Mrs. Calvin Lowering, 7 Maple Terrace, and Mr. & Mrs. Alfred Seitz, Jefferson Road.

Another class for prospective mothers (first described in "It's New to Us" last fall) will start next Thursday at 162 Jefferson Road, under the guidance of Mrs Margaret Obert, RN. Written permission from each woman's physician is necessary for enrollment.

A well-known Princeton business man has retired from the scene with the sale by Burnett Griggs of the restaurant he operated for many years at the corner of Witherspoon and Hullish Streets. The eating place will re-open Monday under the management of Thomas Steinline of Alexander Street.

Princetonians interested in providing a home and employment for homeless Europeans (refugees from behind the Iron Curtain) should contact the Rev. Milton J. Nauss, pastor of the Lutheran Church, at 73 Spruce Street. Domestics as well as men and women with knowledge of specific trades may be requested, with January 28 the deadline for making arrangements but three to eight months to be allowed before arrival of the DP's.

THE EUROPA

The River, widely accepted as one of 1951's top pictures, has again been held over at New Brunswick's Europa Theatre. A beautifully-made, emotion-packed picture, it was produced in India in full color with an English-speaking cast. Jenn Renoir directed. Now in its third week, the picture will remain at the Europa at least through next Thursday. Performances are at 7 and 9:15.

THE PLAYHOUSE

I'll See You in My Dreams (Thurs.-Sat.) is a musical that runs nearly two hours in telling the life story of song-writer Gus Kahn, composer of many a hit tune in the past two decades. Sentiment and melody abound in a leisurely-paced story. Doris Day, Danny Thomas and Patrice Wymore are the principals. (Second show at 9:15.)

Bright Victory (Sun.-Tues.) is a postwar drama which details the many problems besetting a soldier who losses his sight in World War II. Afraid to face his fiance, terrified at the thought of becoming self-supporting without the use of his eyes, he eventually learns that blindness does not mean an end to life. Well acted by Arthur Kennedy and Peggy Dow.

My Favorite Spy (Wed.-Sat.) is a choice dish for Bob Hope fans. Embellished with everything from a full complement of gags and humorous situations to Hedy Lamarr

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

Sizzling Start. Winter sports do not, with the hopeful exception of hockey, figure to achieve any spectacular results at Princeton this season. There are topflight performers on each Tiger team (in the case of swimming and wrestling, two of the nation's best) but depth is lacking and defeats at the hands of more powerful opponents will follow.

However, on a basis of last weekend's results, it is difficult to see where the athletes in Orange and Black could have improved on their performances. Ability to win ten and deadlock the other contest in 11 scheduled events put Princeton in a first place tie in each of the three winter leagues in which its teams compete. No other eastern college can match that composite standing.

Princeton's hockey team turned back an able, determined Harvard aggregation by a 2-0 count in Baker Rink to match the Brown and Yale point totals in the standings. The Elis, however, were beaten by the Bruins before hammering Dartmouth, 11-2.

The basketball team sharply reversed its losing trend by edging Dartmouth, 50-48, and outclassing Harvard, 55-42, on successive nights. Meanwhile, in Dillon Pool, Howie Stepp watched with delight while his inexperienced swimmers upset favored Navy, 53-31.

The varsity weekend sweep was completed when the squash, fencing and wrestling teams all won. Jimmy Reed's mat squad walloped Penn, 29-2, gaining three falls in the one-sided fray.

Torrey Stars. The job that Dick Vaughan's hockey forces did on Harvard was distinctly impressive, primarily so because of the whitewashing administered on the Crimson. A lion's share of the credit for that aspect of the victory goes to sophomore Blair Torrey, a 19-year-old goalie who has come along amazingly fast.

Torrey, who didn't even have the starting assignment clinched when the season opened, kicked out 30 shots taken by a good Harvard sextet. Although he was afforded topflight protection by his fellow Princetonians, on three occasions the opposition was in on him alone and his work in blocking the shots was outstanding.

A whistling angle, but that was partially screened fr... Harvard's Nathan Corning gave the Tigers time Princeton caught up a good deal faster. A second period in which the visitors racked up 20 points while holding the losers to 4 did the trick.

From a 32-22 lead at half-time, Princeton moved out to an eventual 55-42 victory. Zuravleff, Sisler, Fred Tritschler and Foster Cooper were all in double figures but DeVoe was held to a single point.

With the Fordham game behind them, the Tigers head for Ithaca this weekend to play a Cornell quintet that isn't invincible but has been good enough to top Columbia twice. The first was a non-league encounter in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N. C.; the most recent was a 67-64 double-overtime victory on the Red's floor last Saturday.

Princeton's path is not an easy one in the next month. To stay within hailing distance of the leaders, it must win at least one game from Cornell, Penn and Columbia, with each of these contests scheduled away from Dillon Gym. Any such achievement will make a definite title contender of the Orange and Black.

Wrestlers Swamp Penn. Princeton's wrestling team was held to a draw in its first bout with Penn Saturday but swept the other seven for as one-sided a victory as the Tigers have scored on the mat in some years. The final count of 29-2 was marked by three falls, scored by Henry Shprk, 137-pounds; sophomore Don Rumsfeld, who has never been beaten as a college wrestler, in the 157-pound class; and Captain Brad Glass, national heavyweight king.

The Tigers will be in for a far stiffer test when they travel to Lancaster Saturday to face Franklin and Marshall. Jimmy Reed is of the opinion he's leading his outfit into a hornets' nest, for F. & M. is a hotbed of wrestling fans and annually turns out strong teams.

If Princeton comes anywhere near an even break in the first four bouts, chances of a victory will be fairly good. Starting with Rumsfeld and running through Carleton MacDonald, another unbeaten sophomore; either Les Wilson or Marty Mayer at 175 lbs. and Glass in the unlimited division, the Tigers can give a good account of themselves.

Swimmers Start Well. Howie Stepp, entering his 24th year as Princeton's swimming coach, has his team off to a faster start this season than he had believed possible with the material at hand. The Tigers swamped a favored Navy outfit, 53-31, and four days later, topped Lehigh by almost the same margin. The Pennsylvanians' 54-30 defeat in Dillon Pool was their first in five meets.

Dick Hargreave was a double winner against the midshipmen, taking the 200-yard freestyle and the backstroke. Captain Bob Brawner swam his 100-yard leg in the medley relay in under 59 seconds and then ripped off a 2:16.8 in the breaststroke over 200 yards, less than four seconds off his own world record.

Brawner did not compete in this event against Lehigh because the Tigers were so far ahead. Ed Craig took meet honors, winning both the 50 and the 100 as he continues to improve. He tunes up for the swimming season as the cavorting Tiger at Princeton football games.

Last-Minute Victory. Coming from behind in the final minute to erase a 46-43 Long Branch lead, Princeton High School's basketball team barely maintained its once-beaten record last Friday evening.

Three points ahead and in possession of the ball with less than 60 seconds remaining, Long Branch seemed assured of the victory. But Princeton gained control after a missed foul, and Fred Wilson brought the Little Tigers up to a one-point deficit with a long set shot.

With the crowd intensely excited, the ball changed hands twice before Princeton capitalized on a three-in-one break, culminated by Frank Perna's pass to Buster Thomas under the basket. Thomas dropped in a lay-up with only 12 seconds left to give Princeton the victory. Tom Perks led the victors in scoring with 18 points.

Tuesday saw the Blue and White win its fifth game in six starts as

A whistling angle shot that was partially screened fr... Harvard's Nathan Corning gave the Tigers their opening goal. Credit went to Bill Gall, with assists for brother Pete and Derek Price. This line is now one point ahead of the Bothfeld-Cleaves-Davis combination in total scoring.

Cleaves set up the play that brought the second goal toward the close of period two. Breaking down ice fast, he skated back of the Harvard cage and passed out to Hank Bothfeld about 20 feet in front of Corning. The latter found the corner of the goal on a foot-high blast that the goalie couldn't touch.

Rensselaer Polytech will play the Orange and Black Friday night on its way to Hanover. The R.P.I. outfit was recently host to seven other colleges in its new rink at Troy, N. Y., with Brown taking the honors.

Dartmouth's lack of natural ice through a good part of December has made the going tough for the Hanover skaters, who should not create too much trouble for Princeton Saturday. A victory will send the Tigers out in front in the Pentagonal race, with action not slated again until a game against St. Lawrence here on February 7.

Reversal of Form. Fortunately for Cappy Cappon's basketball team, all the scoring in the last two minutes of the Dartmouth game was done by Princeton. After 38 minutes of play, the Indians led, 48-44, but sophomore Phil Zuravleff sank consecutive set shots to tie the score, stealing the ball each time.

There were 30 seconds left when a jump ball was called and Chuck DeVoe got the tap over the Indians' Bill Biggs. After a 25-second freeze, the Tigers shook DeVoe loose for a lay-up and there wasn't time for the home team to retaliate.

At Cambridge on Saturday, Harvard followed Dartmouth's example in getting away from the Nassau quintet at the start but this

The Rug Mart assures us that it wears every bit as well as wool. If you're concerned about its wearing qualities, it's made by Guliston, and you know what that name means when you're shopping for rugs.

You can have immediate delivery, in gray, beige, rose, dark or light green.

Good to the Walls. Landlords can be the stuffiest people in the world when it comes to letting you drive nails into the wall for your art gallery. We've tried all kinds of tricks, even replastered the wall, but nothing has ever worked very well.

Now, at the Witherspoon Art and Book Shop, we find a Miracle Grip Picture Hanger to solve all problems. (The Witherspoon A. & B. is in the Branch Building, corner Witherspoon and Spring, on the third floor.)

The Miracle Grip is a two-inch tab of white gummed paper about as heavy as iron-on mending tape. In the bottom of the tab is a metal rod and from this rod a hook protrudes.

You wet the tape in your faucet, then rub it firmly on your wall and let it dry for 20 minutes. At the end of that time, you can hang anything on your hook up to 20 pounds. (Probably even hold that portrait of grandma in the big gilt frame.) A small hook is designed to hold pictures weighing up to six pounds.

When you're ready to move, still Number One Tenant in your landlord's book, you can pull the tape off and there will be no trace of it on your wall. Package of hooks is about 10 cents—depends on the weight you want.

For the Bassinet Set. Anyone assembling a trousseau for a newborn friend will have a wonderful time at 20 Nassau with Lillian Bellows' "coordinated color" layettes. "Coordinated color" is quite a mouthful for a baby who's just been sprung from the hospital, but the phrase is well-chosen. What you do is select your color (maize, blue, pink, mint-green) and then assemble a layette from a vast assortment of infant clothes, all made in these pastels. (You can, of course, buy the garments in white, if you wish.)

Where to begin? There are the usual cotton jersey baby shirts. And then—short-sleeved sacques, long-sleeved sacques, teething bibs just long enough to catch the dribble, giant feeding bibs long enough to engulf the whole baby, almost. The long one comes in white: its color is in the border.

For the feet, bootees lined in softest flannel, with good square toe that doesn't pinch the comparatively new foot. You can unsnap these, wash them, lay them out flat as the ironing board and iron, then snap 'em back together again.

Keeping in mind the color you selected? Well, you can have double-knit face towels and wash cloths, a white bathinette pad that can be used later to cover the bottom of the big tub when baby graduates; and a capacious bath apron for mother.

This is a competent, functional apron. It is large, with secure tape ties and pockets for spare safety pins and such. If you prefer, you can have the apron in terry, lined with vinylite.

Still in pastel cotton Jersey, you can pick out bedding to match your layette. Blankets come in crib or bassinet size, with mitered corners, if you like. There's even a special top sheet with only two mitered corners. Wouldn't the bassinet size make a good receiving blanket? And it would be the perfect hot-weather coverlet.

When the baby is older and there is no longer quite so much need for—ah, absorbancy, you'll want to consider the fine muslin pastel sheets. And the older child in a youth bed may find comfort in the warmth of a knit sheet—they come in youth bed size, too.

All in all, you can reap a colorful harvest from Lillian Bellows' layette corner. Wouldn't it be a good place to take a prospective grandmother?

it ran away from Pennington, 84-32, on the losers' court. Playing less than half the game, Buster Thomas hit for 24 points, 12 of them in the first eight minutes. The Little Tiger jayvees won, 39-28, after losing last week to Long Branch.

The Little Tigers will meet Hamilton High in Trenton in their next game Friday. The game, to be played in the high school gym, will start at 8 p.m. Next Tuesday it will be Bound Brook away.

Hun Loses Two. Hun's basketball team, slightly less fortunate in its first few games than Princeton High, will face Delbarton School here this Saturday afternoon.

The Hun cagers went down to defeat in their first two post-vacation contests. Playing away from their home court, the Red and Black lost to Bordentown, 47-43, and Pingry, 43-35.

The bright spot for Hun in both games was the shooting of high-scoring guard Alan McLam. McLam threw in 17 points in both games to spark Hun's offense. He was topped only by the victors' Bill Tatlock's 22 points in the Pingry contest. Hun met BMI in a return game Wednesday.

Receive Awards. Sixteen residents of the Princeton area were included in the list of Princeton University award-winners for the 1951 fall season. Of the number, five were cited for their participation on football teams and ten received recognition in soccer, plus one in cross country.

Three varsity P's were handed out to residents of this community. Thomas Hennon of 36 Bank Street was one of 38 letter-winners on the undefeated varsity football team, while George Gallup, The Great Road, and Thomas Moore, 59 Wescott Road, won soccer awards.

Others to receive letters and numerals for football were Charles Anderson of 20 Moore Street and John M. Emery of 48 Stanworth Lane, who received junior varsity P's; Peter Bibbes, 24 Erdman Avenue, awarded a secondary varsity P for participation on the 150-lb. varsity; and Edward Eckfeldt, 101

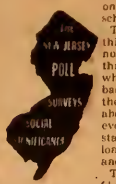
The New Jersey Poll

HALF OF ADULTS IN STATE BELIEVE TELEVISION HAS GOOD EFFECT ON CHILDREN

Just about half the adult population in the state is of the opinion that television is a good influence on New Jersey school children.



Those who share this opinion outnumber by nearly three to one those who think it's a bad influence. At the same time about one out of every four in the state says television is both a good and bad influence.

These were the findings when New Jersey Poll staff reporters recently asked the following question of an accurate cross-section of 1,500 New Jersey residents living in all 21 counties of the State and in more than 50 different communities:

"Do you think television is a good influence or a bad influence on New Jersey school children?"

Good influence	49%
Bad influence	17
Both good and bad	26
Depends on parent	1
No opinion	7

An analysis of the views of the various population groups in the state on the question of the influence of television on New Jersey school children brings to light a number of interesting findings.

For instance, in every population segment examined in today's survey, the number who think television is a good influence outnumbers by a considerable margin those who believe it's a bad influence. These groups include people with and without television sets in their homes, television-owning families with and without school-age children; non-television owning families with and without children in schools; men and women; residents of all city sizes; all age groups, occupations and educational levels.

There are, however, substantial differences of opinion among the various groups. For example, majority sentiment among those with television sets in the home is that television is a good influence; whereas some 15% fewer among those with no television sets in their homes share this opinion.

And the number who say "bad influence" is twice as great among non-television owning families than it is among those with television sets in their homes.

	Families With TV	Families Without
Good influence	54%	39%
Bad influence	13	25
Both good and bad	28	21
Depends on parents	1	1
No opinion	4	14

And a majority of all television families with school children say their television set is a good influence; whereas some 20% fewer among non-television families with school children say this.

Families With Children in School

	With TV	Without TV
Good influence	56%	36%
Bad influence	12	25
Both good and bad	29	29
Depends on parents	1	0
No opinion	2	10

Also of note is that a majority of all television families with no school children in the home feel that television is a good influence on schoolage boys and girls; whereas a considerably smaller proportion of non-television families without school children say this.

Families Without School Children

	With TV	Without TV
Good influence	53%	39%
Bad influence	13	25
Both good and bad	28	20
Depends on parents	*	1
No opinion	6	15

*Less than one-half percent

Still another interesting finding is that people who have had partial or complete college educations are less inclined to say that television is a good influence on school children than are those with less formal education.

Bayard Lane, who received numerals for 150-lb. varsity football.

Members of the varsity soccer team to receive secondary varsity P's were Donald Conner, 127 Prospect Street, and Peter Rossmassler of Mountain View Road. Junior varsity numerals were earned by Philip Diggdon of 48 Charlton Street for the same sport.

Five others earned freshman soccer numerals. They are James Donnelly, 10 Stanworth Lane; Harold Elsasser, 128 Broadmead; George Huckl, 251 Bayard Lane; Charles Mapes, Province Line Road, and John Wallace, The North Road.

Two-inch numerals for freshman cross country went to James L. Groom, 46 Princeton Avenue.

Championships Here. More than 200 men and women speed skaters from a dozen states and Canada will partake a week from Saturday in the New Jersey Indoor Speed Skating Championships in Baker Rink. Trials will be held at 2:30, with the finals starting at 8.

The Princeton Lions Club is cosponsor of the event with the Paterson Skating Club; the March of Dimes is among the beneficiaries. Nineteen different races on five levels of competition are on the program, with more than 70 trophies to be awarded.

spy, the picture is good for many a chuckle. The plot is so old-fashioned a lovely if somewhat treacherous it that it is climaxed by a wild chase (through ancient Tangier) on a fire engine that is strictly reminiscent of Harold Lloyd comedies.

THE GARDEN

The Man With a Cloak (Fri.-Sat.) is a murder mystery set in New York's Greenwich Village of 1840. Joseph Cotten and Barbara Stanwyck head the cast in a story that moves far too slowly, is filled with talk and is generally unconvincing.

Phantom of the Opera (Mon.-Tues.) proves that audiences still like the earlier horror films, this one the picture in which a maniac drops a huge chandelier on a gaily-dressed audience. A reissue of a remake of the first (Lon Chaney) "Phantom," this production stars Nelson Eddy and Susanna Foster, with Claude Rains as the villainous cripple.

The Man In the Dinghy (Wed.-Thurs.) is British comedy amid a sea-going setting in which a touch of fantasy is introduced with generally satisfactory results. Michael Wilding and Constance Cummings head the cast.

service at the First Presbyterian Church will be repeated at 8 p.m. by the Rev. John R. Bodo. The change in policy has been made by the Session because of the overflow at the morning service and to enable those who wish to attend at night to have a more formal service and sermon.

Henry W. Kenarney will be installed Saturday as president of Mercer Engine Company No. 3 at its annual banquet. Others to take office will be John W. Stalker, vice-president; Clarence H. Rodefeld, treasurer; Richard H. Wood, secretary; Frederick K. Bohn, foreman; Laurence Patterson, first assistant foreman; Raymond Grover, second assistant. Leland G.
